DRAFTING OF PLATFORM DELAYS G. O. P. CONVENTION: WILL BE READY BY 4 P. M.

WILL RECONVENE AT THAT HOUR TO TAKE ACTION ON COMMITTEE'S DRAFT

NO NOMINATIONS LIKELY TO BE MADE BEFORE NOON TOMORROW AS FIGHT LOOMS ON THE PLATFORM

LEAGUE PLANK MAY NOT PLEASE HY

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 10—Chairman Lodge called the third session of the Republican National Convention to order at 11:18 a. m. today and recessed 13 minutes later. There was considerable confusion before order was restored. Lodge announced that Cardinal Gibbons would offer prayer. The Cardinal came to the platform and read the prayer in a light voice but it was easily heard. He wore his red robe and red hat. Lodge stood at the Cardinal's right side as he prayed. The vast audience stood in silence with bowed heads.

Immediately following the prayer Senator McCormick said he had a report to make from the Resolutions Committee. There was great applause. Lodge rapped for order and shouted "clear the aisles." McCormick said the sub-committee had practically completed the drafting of the platform after an all night deliberation. McCormick then asked for an adjournment until 4 p. m. when the report would be submitted. There was strong objection to this course and when Lodge called for a ye or nay vote the shouts of no were heard louder than the yeas but it was apparent that the spectators had joined in this for when a rising vote was called the yeas were in the majority and the motion carried. McCormick said "the members of the whole committee will consider the draft line by line." The spectators were reluctant to leave the building. Hundreds of them stood in the galleries. They evidently believed they did not get their money's worth. Even the delegates stayed in the building until the band finished playing the "Stars and Stripes Forever." Five minutes after adjournment there had been no spontaneous action toward the doors. Movie men took advantage of this and flooded the hall with cameras.

CHICAGO, June 10—The sub-committee of the Resolutions Committee reached an agreement on the League of Nations plank shortly before noon today. It favors condemnation of the treaty in its present form and commendation of the Senators who voted to defeat it as presented by President Wilson. It states in effect that an agreement with any foreign nation must conform with American ideals and must be in line with the thoughts of Washington and Monroe. It maintains absolute silence on whether the Republican party should ratify the treaty or not.

By L. C. MARTIN

CHICAGO, June 10—Over the protest of six or more committeemen the Resolutions Committee today voted to recess until 4 p. m. to give the sub-committee time to draft League of Nations and Mexican planks. Committeeman Ullman and other committeemen protested against this move declaring it was an attempt to jam the sub-committee at the last minute.

CHICAGO, June 10—The draft of the Republican platform as prepared by the sub-committee on Resolutions and now ready to be presented for approval by the full committee has been completed with the exception of the League of Nations and the Mexican relations planks. It was learned today. The contents are: The Wilson Administration is indicted for lack of co-operation in its various departments. This plank also charges that "seasoned leadership has been found wanting."

The Republican party will resist all attempts to overthrow the government whether by international or domestic agitation.

The only mention of prohibition in the sub-committee draft are these words "The Republican Congress provided for the enforcement of the 18th amendment to the Constitution."

Labor: This plank recognizes the justice of collective bargaining and believes that strikes and walk-outs that inflict suffering justify government action to reduce their frequency and limit the consequences. It believes the principles of the Esch-Cummins law regarding strike settlement should be applied in moderate form to public utilities.

The high cost of living: "We decline to deceive the public with vain promises of quick remedies." This plank blames the Democratic Administration for the present conditions and pledges the party to earnest consideration of the high cost of living and by avoiding further inflation through government borrowing and by deflation of currency and credits by prosecution of profiteers by urging public economy and by revision of war profit taxes. It declares that a great part of the trouble is due to failure to enforce profiteering laws.

EVERYTHING COMING HIS WAY--EVEN TO THE POLICE FORCE

Five dusky sons of Ham, whose remote ancestors chased voodooes and hoodoos across Africa's sunny strand, congregated under the arc light at the corner of Twelfth and Dorcy streets last night for the purpose of engaging in a game of "African golf."

They started shootin' "two bits" but soon the sports heated up to the point where they were risking "foh dollars" on a turn of the little ivory cubes.

An unfeeling or unsportsmanlike native got a view of the proceedings and promptly called the police on the phone. Chief Fadie and Officer Carlson started post haste after the gamblers. The officers were whisked down town in an automobile and when within a block of the game stopped the machine and proceeded to stalk the sports.

Arthur Kirk, with all the luck, had garnered a roll of dollar bills, the thickness of a joint of stove pipe, and one of the losers had just observed that everything sure was coming Kirk's way, when the officers arrived on the scene.

You should have seen those coins scatter. One jump and all had melted into the darkness. When the officers recovered from their rush they took account of stock and found they had captured just one hat. The hat happened to bear the name of Kirk, the owner, and he was later rounded up and soaked for a $10 fine by Mayor Chase. The names of two others of the gamblers are known and they will be called upon to settle this evening.

Miss Annie Post, Miss Jennie Heitner, Mrs. R. A. Miller, of Curvesville, spent last evening with Miss Edna Shaffer on Fourth street.

Taxes: The party does not promise a revision of taxes at once so long as there are huge war debts. It urges simplification of the income tax returns.

Soldier bonus: It pledges to discharge the obligations of the nation but makes no specific promises regarding soldier bonus in this plank.

Woman's Suffrage: Republican governors whose states have not acted upon the Suffrage Amendment are urged to immediately call special legislative sessions for this purpose.

Farms: Co-operative marketing laws are encouraged. Scientific study of agriculture and prices is recommended. It suggests that farm loans be opened by state administrations so as to enable all farmers to own their own farms.

Banking and Currency: Banks are urged to give credit preference to essential industries. The Federal Reserve system should be free from political domination.

Good Roads: Good roads are advocated and urges co-operation of the states.

Railroads: The Esch-Cummins law is endorsed as a "most constructive legislative accomplishment."

Government Ownership and Operation: "Employee operation" is opposed. Belief is expressed that service is more efficient through private ownership and operation.

Tariff: The party reiterates its belief in protective tariff.

Merchant Marine: It believes in private ownership and operation of the Merchant Marine flying the American flag and manned by American seamen.

Immigration and Naturalization: Favors annual registration of aliens until naturalized.

Free Speech: This plank believes that every citizen should enjoy free speech, free press and free assembly.

The draft contents recommend forest conservation, reclamation, water way development, enforcement of the Civil Service laws, solution of the social problem, vocational and education training, reorganization of government bureaus, equal pay for equal work for women in industry, child labor laws and housing.

The G. O. P. convention will reconvene tonight at 4 P. M. to hear the report of the Resolutions Committee which is drafting the 1920 platform. It is doubtful whether any other business will come before the convention tonight. Another session will probably be called for about noon tomorrow at which it is expected nominations will begin.

STOPPED THE ALARM CLOCK

Frank C. Wrigley, of West Market street, was down in Karthaus township the past couple of days and with John McCloskey, of Catawba, was engaged in going over the I. C. McCloskey estate lands estimating the timber on same.

While traveling a path thru the woods in company with Mr. McCloskey Tuesday evening, a big yellow rattler, disturbed at his afternoon nap, turned on the switch and whizzed his defiance of all the world. Mr. Wrigley was in the lead and when the noise struck his ear he said "John, by George, some fellow lost his alarm clock and the darn thing's going off."

Mr. McCloskey was carrying a stout hickory cane and slipping quietly into the grass soon discovered the alarm clock and with one blow put it out of commission. The "clock" proved to be a 4-foot rattler and his tail was adorned with 14 rattles and a button. We can guarantee the story and Mr. Wrigley guarantees the snake by the string of rattles which he left with the "snake editor" at this office.

REMOVED HIS TAILOR SHOP

P. S. Redley, the tailor and clothes cleaner, has moved his shop from the second floor of the Globe Theatre building to the second floor of the Reilly building, above Thom's plumbing shop. Bob has added a new machine or two and is better prepared than ever to look after his trade and swap a few tails with the customer while he waits.

The Globe Theatre building will be converted into flats.

ST. MARYS HAS TEN PER CENT. GROWTH

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Census Bureau today announced the 1920 population of St. Mary's to be 6,967. The increase over the 1910 population is 621 or 9.8.

Johnson Issues Another Defi To League Issue Pussyfooters

HORSES DO SHIMMY WHEN THEY TREAD ON CHARGED GROUND

An upcountry farmer drove into the lot in the rear of Tobias Bros. grocery yesterday afternoon with a load of potatoes. He left his team and went into the store to see about a sale of his produce. While he was inside, his staid old farm team began to cut up scandalous didos and gave a double portrayal of the "shimmy," "jelly wobble" and all the other muscle dances and giggles. Finally they wheeled about, upset the wagon and started down the alley at break-neck speed.

As they crossed Locust street a car was backed out of the Routh & Swartz garage right in their path and this served to slow up the frightened horses sufficient to allow one of the garage men to get hold of them and stop them.

They were driven back to the starting point and no sooner reached the spot back of the store where they had been standing than they again began their midway antics. The farmer thought the pesky brutes were bewitched until Tom Bannon stepped out of Schmitt's bakery and informed the team owner that he had better get his team out of that as a ground wire from one of the Penn Public Service Company wires had so heavily charged the ground at that point that the horses could not stand the jar. The nags were moved off the infected area and their troubles ended.

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT THRIFT

Great efforts have been made during the year to get the children interested in regular savings. Nearly every school has its savings society and it is hoped that this regular saving habit will be continued throughout the summer by the assistance of the parents.

If the child starts saving and invests early in life and continues, by the time he is out of school the habit will be so well established that his future success will be assured and if these savings are in Government securities he will be a stockholder in national prosperity.

The following are some suggestions for earning during the summer, that might be followed out by boys and girls: Home gardens, sell some of it to mother, sell the surplus in the community, can the vegetables for winter and be sure to keep account of all expenses and receipts in the project. Collect and sell old rubber, tinfoil, paper, iron, copper, bottles, clothes, etc. Boys can try raising pigs, calves, poultry, or vegetables. Girls can try raising flowers or poultry or they can do ranning, sewing, mending, tending to children, etc. Miscellaneous projects for earning money are, selling papers, delivering groceries, mowing lawns, trimming hedges, cleaning yards or picking berries, etc.

Many benefits are derived from summer work. Children learn the value of money and they gain ability to attack larger projects and earn more money. They gain good business experience and they perform a good service to our country by increasing production and thereby helping to lower the cost of living. The money earned should be invested in Thrift and Savings Stamps paying 4 per cent, compounded quarterly.

Send to W. Harrison Walker, Chairman of Group 3, Bellefonte, Pa., for "Savings Bank" for the storing of money during the summer and then at the beginning of school in the fall it can be turned in to increase the amount of School Savings Society.

Thrift Committee, State College Woman's Club.

Will Carry It To People If Republican Party Fails, Is His Fiery Edict First Thing This Morning

SPROUL CONTINUES TO GAIN

By HAROLD D. JACOBS

CHICAGO, June 10—Senator Hiram Johnson today was getting in more and more of a fighting mood. Some politicians are afraid he will be harassed to the stage where he might bolt if the Convention fails to oppose the League of Nations. A general raid is being made upon his delegates.

"They are using every means to get the delegates pledged to me in the preference primaries" Johnson said. "If any man breaks faith I will take his case to the public. I am trying to get the American attitude on the League of Nations and if the Republican party will not give it I will ask them for it."

From the little suite of rooms in the Congress Hotel housing the telephone and telegraph wires connecting with the Philadelphia home of Senator Penrose, the impression was given that a convention within a convention had been held and that the Members of the Old Guard had finally agreed on their choice for the nomination. This impression was strengthened by the confident air of John P. King, field marshal of the Penrose forces, and by the fact that the Pennsylvania Senator having publicly endorsed Governor Sproul had given an impetus to the boom that made it reverberate above all others. Many political wiseacres during to the belief that the Old Guard would not disclose the name of their choice until a sufficient number of ballots had been taken to warrant giving their strength to any one choice.

The statement attributed to Hiram Johnson in the text above was made prior to announcement of what course the Republican party would pursue in dealing with the treaty and league of nations. Whether or not the treaty plank agreed upon will meet with his views is not known and will not be until the platform comes up for ratification tonight but in view of the position he has taken on it there is little prospect of it being satisfactory to the aggressive Californian.

IT COSTS FROM FOUR CENTS TO $5000 TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Getting nominated for Congress is cheap despite the primary system, according to expenses statements filed by candidates with Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives. In about 20 states apparently it costs nothing for not a single statement has been filed. This condition is sworn to be true in numerous congressional districts of many of the other states.

The admitted costs range from four cents to $5,000. Henry Spaan, an Indiana Democrat, wrote a couple of letters, hence the four-cent item, while E. W. Rothrock, a Pennsylvania Republican, spent the $5,000. Other candidates scattered throughout the country, place the cost at fifty cents to a few hundred or thousand dollars.

Mrs. Mary and Reda O'Brien of Osceola attended the Nurses' dance here last evening.

RECEPTION TO CLASS OF 1920

The reception at the Nurse's Home last evening to the Class of 1920, as a part of the Commencement program of the Clearfield Hospital's Nurses' Training School, was an especially delightful function and was attended by a large number of the relatives and friends of this year's graduates. Dancing was indulged in and delicious refreshments were served.

THOMAS H. GOON'S FUNERAL

The funeral of the late Thomas H. Goon was held today. Rev. Dr. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian Church, conducted brief services at the Goon home on Fifth street at 11 o'clock, at the conclusion of which the funeral party repaired to New Millport via of the New York Central. Funeral services were held at New Millport, Rev. Jarrett officiating, with interment in New Millport cemetery.

Once the balloting begins The Progress force will not see bed or board until the fray is over. Here is hoping it will not go to twenty ballots as some predict.

That Johnson will bolt if the Republican party does not declare emphatically against the League of Nations is the only conclusion one can reach after reading the statement credited to him in today's dispatches.

Wood delegates are reported to look with favor on Wm. C. Sproul. Johnson has found Sproul to be congenial company. There are many reasons for thinking that Sproul will be the nominee. There is no reason for thinking he will not be except that it "never happened that way before."

Dempsey is reported to be winning in his battle against the U. S. government on the charge of evading the draft. Dempsey hid behind a marriage which a weak Utah statute recognizes as legal although he is not living with his wife and probably never intended to. There is a greater court than that trying him, that of public opinion, and before it Dempsey will be convicted.

We believe that the Resolutions Committee is representative enough of the population of the United States to write the platform of the Republican party and do a good job of it. After all, it is the platform which will be the sole campaign argument this year and if any of the presidential aspirants wish to bolt the party they will probably find out just how infinitesimal they are.

"Honesty" is the stamp which every thinking American will put on the work of the Resolutions Committee in framing the G. O. P. platform. The committee was cajoled, harassed and hounded by every organization, ism and faction in the nation. All the great organizations seeking personal or class preference were on the job with threats of ruin for the party unless the members surrendered to their demands.

As to living costs the Republican party is making no promises. It realizes that the task of bringing order out of chaos is one that will require time, patience and effort. It offers no quick panacea merely to catch votes. While this is the biggest issue today it is indeed refreshing to see that the party takes such an honest stand.

OBREGON FRIENDLY TO AMERICANS, MAY BRING CLOSER RELATIONS

By RALPH H. TURNER
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, May 19. (By Mail.)

In one respect at least, it is confidently believed that the foreign policy of the new Mexican revolutionary government will differ radically from that of the late lamented Venustiano Carranza. This change of policy lies in the matter of Pan-American relations.

Carranza was obsessed with an idea, conscientious or otherwise, that he was destined to go down in history as the man who had defended the rights of all Latin-America against the predatory designs of the "Colossus of the Norte"—namely, the United States. At times his policy indicated that he even dreamed of an alliance among the Latin-American nations. Carranza sought to create the impression in Central and South America that Mexico constantly was being made the victim of unwarranted attacks from the United States. With this theory as a background he endeavored to draw South America into an attitude of sympathy for Mexico, as well as antipathy toward any Mexican policy which emanated from Washington.

Mexico City newspapers which reflected the official viewpoint frequently spoke of the "Carranza Doctrine"—a doctrine which supposedly aimed to unify Latin-America in all matters political, social and commercial. To achieve this aim, Carranza employed a form of propaganda which, though it may have some effect, certainly bore few evidences of subtlety.

An occasional attack upon the Monroe Doctrine was one form of campaign. Sometimes it was accompanied by a suggestion that an exclusive Latin-American doctrine would be more satisfactory. This mode of propaganda did not always arise from Mexico

City sources even though it had its inspiration here. Carranza, through his ministers abroad, was in touch with certain Central and South American citizens, who, at intervals, could be depended upon to direct an attack upon the United States.

However, Carranza's propaganda functioned chiefly through his Foreign Office. Its mode of operation was illustrated particularly well at the time the Jenkins case was in the public eye and the State Department in Washington had resumed its note-writing activity.

Scarcely a day passed but what Carranza's side of the story, illuminated by statements of how the United States again was abusing Mexico, was sent from the Mexican Foreign Office to the Mexican legations throughout Latin-America. These cabled reports were to be given out either in the form of interviews or direct statements to the Latin-American press. All press comment, either Mexican or American, which was favorable to Mexico in any degree, was assembled and cabled to South America. In turn, South American opinion which favored Mexico and attacked the United States, was collected at this end and given to the newspapers of the capital for home consumption.

This form of procedure was general, but always found stimulus when some prominent "issue" arose between Mexico and the United States.

General Alvaro Obregon, the leader of the revolution which ousted Carranza, has declared himself opposed to such a policy and he is being taken at his word. Obregon appreciates, first, that the new government should strive for recognition from Washington at the earliest possible date. He has announced that American capital would be welcomed in Mexico and protected. Moreover the revolutionaries may desire, at some future date, to negotiate with the United States for a loan. And Obregon, it is believed, is broad-gauged enough to realize that a policy of hostility toward the United States is not the best method to attain these things.

In the opinion of foreign diplomats here, if Obregon has seen the fallacy of Carranza's foreign policy, and is prepared to modify that policy, it will mean much for the betterment of Pan-American relations.

It is simply to decide whether we are to have prices of necessities lower or higher.

Ever since the announcement of May 8th, taking One-Fifth Off Our Prices the Lytle Bros. Store has led the battle for lower prices.

Some other merchants have resisted. They declare that prices can't come down.

The people have recognized this store that is fighting on their side, and have also recognized some stores that are marching under the people's banner, but that are secretly helping the other side.

There is no difficulty finding out where we stand, nor in discovering what is going on here.

Every business day since May 8th we have been carrying out a definite plan, doing just a plain, straightforward thing.

If Kidneys And Bladder Bother

Take a glass of Sals to flush out your kidneys and neutralize uric acids.

Kidney and bladder weakness is the most common ailment of the modern man. The kidneys filter out the waste from the blood and prevent it from entering the system. When they become weak, the waste accumulates in the blood, causing a burning, itching sensation on getting up in the morning and a constant dull ache in the back. It is very common for the bladder to become weak and to discharge a small amount of urine at intervals of two or three times during the night. The collection of uric acid in the blood is a very serious condition and is a very common cause of kidney trouble.

It is the only medicine that will cure kidney and bladder weakness. It is a natural remedy and is safe for all ages. It is the only medicine that will cure kidney and bladder weakness. It is a natural remedy and is safe for all ages.

A HOUSEKEEPER

By GRACE E. RILEY.

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Hester Blynn started the trouble. Hester had lived with Melissa for 14 years. Now she was married and Melissa was left alone.

"I believe I'm lonesome," Melissa gurgled to herself. Gurgled describes it. Her conversation always seemed on the ragged edge of a laugh.

Fifteen years before, the heart of Ned Coffin, Melissa's sweetheart since her childhood days, had been captured by a summer boarder—a pretty girl and gay, who, when urged by Ned, had given up her school in Boston and married him in late September.

Their wedding day gave birth to Melissa's gurgling laugh, a disguise for her aching heart; and to all intents and purposes Melissa had bought a farm in New York state, where, with her cousin Hester Blynn, she had lived and had gained a name for herself, both for her excellent cooking and for her fine friendliness to the world in general.

"Yes, I'm lonesome," she reiterated. "When a woman gets to pitying herself, she'd better look elsewhere for an outlet for her thoughts," and, lighting the lamp, she settled down to devour her farm paper. Everything from the president's illness to the want ads fell under her appraising eye. Then an ejaculation escaped from her lips. Someone in Nantucket wanted a housekeeper. She'd love to answer it! She was a good cook, and was alone in the world. What was to prevent? She read again:

"A widower on Nantucket Island has a place for a housekeeper with prospects. Address N-24, Farmers' Home."

"Seems like writing to a white post or some equally inhuman thing. Maybe he's that sort. Well, we'll see. Guess I'll send him a jar of my plums as a wedge to his approval," said Melissa, suiting action to word by making a raid on her choicest preserves. With great care she packed the jar, and, as with the letter, signed "Melissa Crosby," her mother's name, and addressed it, too, to N-24.

"Melissa, you're an old fool, but, as the saying goes, 'no fool like an old fool.'" So saying, she bolted the door, put out the lamp, banked the kitchen fire and mounted the stairs to her cozy bedroom.

The next day, Ben, man of all work, carried her letter and package to town, and for a week Melissa was as near to nerves as a healthy woman can be. Then came a letter from N-24, expressing his desire that Melissa Crosby come on Oct. 1, to Boston, where he would meet her. He signed himself "Faithfully yours, N-24."

To say Melissa was in a state of excitement would little describe her perturbation. "Now, Melissa, what have you let yourself in for? Probably he's 70 years old and feeble. No, he can't be feeble, else he couldn't come to Boston," she argued as her laugh filled the room.

She wrote again to N-24, telling him to come to the Y. W. C. A., Boston, on Oct. 1, and await for her. Then followed the busiest two weeks of Melissa's life. In the midst of packing preparatory to closing the house, Hester and her husband unexpectedly returned.

"Oh, Melissa, we're in awful trouble," said Hester.

"This is the place to come, then, Hester. What's wrong?"

"You know we were planning to buy the Hiram Brown place, had the papers already to sign, when Hiram got one of his tantrums on, and refused to sell. Now we ain't got any place to go."

"The Lord will provide," read Melissa from an old sampler hanging over the kitchen door. "You surely came to the right place, Hester; you can rent my farm."

"But I don't understand, Melissa." "Course you don't, so I'll tell you. I'm going to Nantucket for a spell, and will be only too glad to rent the farm if you and John will take it."

After a discussion of terms and conditions, the matter was satisfactorily settled, and in a week Melissa was on her way to Boston. October 1 found N-24 at the desk of the Y. W. C. A., inquiring for Miss Crosby. "She's sitting in that telephone room over there," the attendant told him. He crossed the hall, then stopped suddenly, but not before Melissa's glance had fallen on him.

"Ned Coffin, what are you doing here?"

Ned took in the situation at once. "So you, Melissa, are Miss Crosby? I am N-24, Melissa. So you're going to be my housekeeper?"

A hot flush stained her cheeks. "Now, Melissa," she scolded herself. "Don't be silly."

"Guess I am, Ned."

He chuckled. The chuckle increased until it became a hearty laugh.

"What are you laughing at, Ned—why do you look so wise?"

"I was thinking 'bout my ad, Melissa."

"What about it?" The writing of the ad had quite gone from her memory.

"A housekeeper with prospects," he quoted. She raised her eyes to meet his, her cheeks growing pinker and pinker as he said in lowered tone: "Melissa, how about the prospect materializing before we leave Boston?"

Melissa's gurgling laugh was cut short as Ned Coffin, reading acquiescence in her eyes, followed the lead of man since time immemorial.

Don't be downhearted. Perhaps, next spring, we can tap some sugar trees, boil down the water and get some sugar in that way.

Comb Sage Tea Into Gray Hair

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Miss Madeline Shade was delightfully surprised last evening by several of her friends dropping in on her, it being her birthday. The evening was spent in dancing. Delicious refreshments were served.

Eucalyptus Trees.
The grand eucalyptus trees in Gippsland are probably the grandest of their kind in the world, and quite as magnificent as the Californian giants, only not so large in circumference. The shedding of their bark is a misstatement. What the tree does do is this: It sheds the old, dry, broken, and coarse bark, but the new one is sound and solid, and is not shed. The new bark is clean and very smooth, no branches growing for 150 feet or more.

Daily Thought.
It is for this purpose that we are friends—that we may be of good service one to another. . . . Hast thou seen thy brothers at enmity? Reconcile them. . . . Hast thou seen them wrangled? Stand up in their defense. It is not on them but on thyself that thou art conferring the chief benefit.
—St. Augustine.

Joys of Life.
One of the joys of life is planning a model home, but the discovery of the cost of building material and the disposition of the contractor to examine your plans and then follow his own takes some of the joy away.

Aspiration.
An aspiration is a joy forever, a possession as solid as a limited estate, a fortune which we can never exhaust and which gives us year by year a revenue of pleasurable activity.
—Robert Louis Stevenson.

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctor'd off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and throw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. M. A. Y. STENDER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

DRAFTING OF PLATFORM DELAYS G. O. P. CONVENTION: WILL BE READY BY 4 P. M.

WILL RECONVENE AT THAT HOUR TO TAKE ACTION ON COMMITTEE'S DRAFT

LEAGUE PLANK MAY NOT PLEASE HY

COLISEUM, CHICAGO, June 10—Chairman Lodge called the third session of the Republican National Convention to order at 11:18 a. m. today and recessed 13 minutes later. There was considerable confusion before order was restored. Lodge announced that Cardinal Gibbons would offer prayer. The Cardinal came to the platform and read the prayer in a light voice but it was easily heard. He wore his red robe and red hat. Lodge stood at the Cardinal's right side as he prayed. The vast audience stood in silence with bowed heads.

Immediately following the prayer Senator McCormick said he had a report to make from the Resolutions Committee. There was great applause. Lodge rapped for order and shouted "clear the aisles." McCormick said the sub-committee had practically completed the drafting of the platform after an all night deliberation. McCormick then asked for an adjournment until 4 p. m. when the report would be submitted. There was strong objection to this course and when Lodge called for a ye or nay vote the shouts of no were heard louder than the yeas but it was apparent that the spectators had joined in this for when a rising vote was called the yeas were in the majority and the motion carried. McCormick said "the members of the whole committee will consider the draft line by line." The spectators were reluctant to leave the building. Hundreds of them stood in the galleries. They evidently believed they did not get their money's worth. Even the delegates stayed in the building until the band finished playing the "Stars and Stripes Forever." Five minutes after adjournment there had been no spontaneous action toward the doors. Movie men took advantage of this and flooded the hall with cameras.

CHICAGO, June 10—The sub-committee of the Resolutions Committee reached an agreement on the League of Nations plank shortly before noon today. It favors condemnation of the treaty in its present form and commendation of the Senators who voted to defeat it as presented by President Wilson. It states in effect that an agreement with any foreign nation must conform with American ideals and must be in line with the thoughts of Washington and Monroe. It maintains absolute silence on whether the Republican party should ratify the treaty or not.

By L. C. MARTIN

CHICAGO, June 10—Over the protest of six or more committeemen the Resolutions Committee today voted to recess until 4 p. m. to give the sub-committee time to draft League of Nations and Mexican planks. Committeeman Ullman and other committeemen protested against this move declaring it was an attempt to jam the sub-committee at the last minute.

CHICAGO, June 10—The draft of the Republican platform as prepared by the sub-committee on Resolutions and now ready to be presented for approval by the full committee has been completed with the exception of the League of Nations and the Mexican relations planks. It was learned today. The contents are: The Wilson Administration is indicted for lack of co-operation in its various departments. This plank also charges that "seasoned leadership has been found wanting."

The Republican party will resist all attempts to overthrow the government whether by international or domestic agitation.

The only mention of prohibition in the sub-committee draft are these words "The Republican Congress provided for the enforcement of the 18th amendment to the Constitution."

Labor: This plank recognizes the justice of collective bargaining and believes that strikes and walk-outs that inflict suffering justify government action to reduce their frequency and limit the consequences. It believes the principles of the Esch-Cummins law regarding strike settlement should be applied in moderate form to public utilities.

The high cost of living: "We decline to deceive the public with vain promises of quick remedies." This plank blames the Democratic Administration for the present conditions and pledges the party to earnest consideration of the high cost of living and by avoiding further inflation through government borrowing and by deflation of currency and credits by prosecution of profiteers by urging public economy and by revision of war profit taxes. It declares that a great part of the trouble is due to failure to enforce profiteering laws.

EVERYTHING COMING HIS WAY—EVEN TO THE POLICE FORCE

Five dusky sons of Ham, whose remote ancestors chased voodooes and hoodoos across Africa's sunny strand, congregated under the arc light at the corner of Twelfth and Dorcy streets last night for the purpose of engaging in a game of "African golf."

They started shooting "two hits," but soon the sports heated up to the point where they were making "foh dollars" on a turn of the little ivory cubes.

An unfeeling or unspontaneous native got a view of the proceedings and promptly called the police on the phone. Chief Eadie and Officer Carlson started post haste after the gamblers. The officers were whisked down town in an automobile and when within a block of the game stopped the machine and proceeded to stalk the sports.

Arthur Kirk, with all the luck, had garnered a roll of dollar bills, the thickness of a joint of stove pipe, and one of the losers had just observed that everything sure was coming Kirk's way, when the officers arrived on the scene.

You should have seen those coins scatter. One jump and all had melted into the darkness. When the officers recovered from their rush they took account of stock and found they had captured just one hat. The hat happened to bear the name of Kirk, the owner, and he was later rounded up and soaked for a $10 fine by Mayor Chase. The names of two others of the gamblers are known and they will be called upon to settle this evening.

Miss Anne Post, Miss Jennie Hottel, another Miss Rose Miller, of Curvesville, spent last evening with Miss Edna Shaffer on Fourth Street.

Taxes: The party does not promise a revision of taxes at once so long as there are huge war debts. It urges simplification of the income tax returns.

Soldier bonus: It pledges to discharge the obligations of the nation but makes no specific promises regarding soldier bonus in this plank.

Woman's Suffrage: Republican governors whose states have not acted upon the Suffrage Amendment are urged to immediately call special legislative sessions for this purpose.

Farms: Co-operative marketing laws are encouraged. Scientific study of agriculture and prices is recommended. It suggests that farm loans be opened by state administrations so as to enable all farmers to own their own farms.

Banking and Currency: Banks are urged to give credit preference to essential industries. The Federal Reserve system should be free from political domination.

Good Roads: Good roads are advocated and urges co-operation of the states.

Railroads: The Esch-Cummins law is endorsed as a "most constructive legislative accomplishment."

Government Ownership and Operation: "Employee operation" is opposed. Belief is expressed that service is more efficient through private ownership and operation.

Tariff: The party reiterates its belief in protective tariff.

Merchant Marine: It believes in private ownership and operation of the Merchant Marine flying the American flag and manned by American seamen.

Immigration and Naturalization: Favors annual registration of aliens until naturalized.

Free Speech: This plank believes that every citizen should enjoy free speech, free press and free assembly.

The draft contents recommend forest conservation, reclamation, water way development, enforcement of the Civil Service laws, solution of the social problem, vocational and education training, reorganization of government bureaus, equal pay for equal work for women in industry, child labor laws and housing.

The G. O. P. convention will reconvene tonight at 4 P. M. to hear the report of the Resolutions Committee which is drafting the 1920 platform. It is doubtful whether any other business will come before the convention tonight. Another session will probably be called for about noon tomorrow at which it is expected nominations will begin.

STOPPED THE ALARM CLOCK

Frank C. Wrigley, of West Market street, was down in Karthaus township the past couple of days and with John McCloskey, of Catawba, was engaged in going over the I. C. McCloskey estate lands estimating the timber on same.

While traveling a path thru the woods in company with Mr. McCloskey Tuesday evening, a big yellow rattler, disturbed at his afternoon nap, turned on the switch and whizzed his deance of all the world. Mr. Wrigley was in the lead and when the noise struck his ear he said "John, by George, some fellow lost his alarm clock and the darn thing's going off."

Mr. McCloskey was carrying a stout hickory cane and slipping quietly into the grass soon discovered the alarm clock and with one blow put it out of commission. The "clock" proved to be a 4-foot rattler and his tail was adorned with 14 rattles and a button. We can guarantee the story and Mr. Wrigley guarantee the snake by the string of rattles which he left with the "snake editor" at this office.

REMOVED HIS TAILOR SHOP

P. S. Redley, the tailor and clothes cleaner, has moved his shop from the second floor of the Globe Theatre building to the second floor of the Reilly building, above Thom's plumbing shop. Bob has added a new machine or two and is better prepared than ever to look after his trade and swap a few tails with the customer while he wait.

The Globe Theatre building will be converted into flats.

ST. MARYS HAS TEN PER CENT. GROWTH

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The Census Bureau today announced the 1920 population of St. Mary's to be 6,967. The increase over the 1910 population is 621 or 9.8.

Johnson Issues Another Defi To League Issue Pussyfooters

HORSES DO SHIMMY WHEN THEY TREAD ON CHARGED GROUND

An upcountry farmer drove into the lot in the rear of Tobias Bros. grocery yesterday afternoon with a load of potatoes. He left his team and went into the store to see about a sale of his produce. While he was inside, his staid old farm team began to cut up scandalous didos and gave a double portrayal of the "shimmy," "jelly wobble" and all the other muscle dances and giggles. Finally they wheeled about, upset the wagon and started down the alley at break-neck speed.

As they crossed Locust street a car was backed out of the Route 2 & Swartzie garage right in their path and this served to slow up the frightened horses sufficient to allow one of the garage men to get hold of them and stop them.

They were driven back to the starting point and no sooner reached the spot back of the store where they had been standing than they again began their midway antics. The farmer thought the pesky brutes were bewitched until Tom Bannon stepped out of Schmitt's bakery and informed the team owner that he had better get his team out of that as a ground wire from one of the Penn Public Service Company wires had so heavily charged the ground at that point that the horses could not stand the jar. The nags were moved off the infected area and their troubles ended.

CHILDREN SHOULD BE TAUGHT THRIFT

Great efforts have been made during the year to get the children interested in regular savings. Nearly every school has its savings society and it is hoped that this regular saving habit will be continued throughout the summer by the assistance of the parents.

If the child starts saving and invests early in life and continues, by the time he is out of school the habit will be so well established that his future success will be assured and if these savings are in Government securities he will be a stockholder in national prosperity.

The following are some suggestions for earning during the summer, that might be followed out by boys and girls: Home gardens, sell some of it to mother, sell the surplus in the community, can the vegetables for winter and be sure to keep account of all expenses and receipts in the project. Collect and sell old rubber, tinfoil, paper, iron, copper, bottles, clothes, etc. Boys can try raising pigs, calves, poultry, or vegetables. Girls can try raising flowers or poultry or they can do canning, sewing, mending, tending to children, etc. Miscellaneous projects for earning money are, selling papers, delivering groceries, mowing lawns, trimming hedges, cleaning yards or picking berries, etc.

Many benefits are derived from summer work. Children learn the value of money and they gain ability to attack larger projects and earn more money. They gain good business experience and they perform a good service to our country by increasing production and thereby helping to lower the cost of living. The money earned should be invested in Thrift and Savings Stamps paying 4 per cent, compounded quarterly.

Send to W. Harrison Walker, Chairman of Group 3, Bellefonte, Pa., for "Savings Bank" for the storing of money during the summer and then at the beginning of school in the fall it can be turned in to increase the amount of School Savings Society. Thrift Committee, State College Woman's Club.

Will Carry It To People If Republican Party Fails, Is His Fiery Edict First Thing This Morning

SPROUL CONTINUES TO GAIN

By HAROLD D. JACOBS

CHICAGO, June 10—Senator Hiram Johnson today was getting in more and more of a fighting mood. Some politicians are afraid he will be harassed to the stage where he might bolt if the Convention fails to oppose the League of Nations. A general raid is being made upon his delegates.

"They are using every means to get the delegates pledged to me in the preference primaries," Johnson said. "If any man breaks faith I will take his case to the public. I am trying to get the American attitude on the League of Nations and if the Republican party will not give it I will ask them for it."

From the little suite of rooms in the Congress Hotel housing the telephone and telegraph wires connecting with the Philadelphia home of Senator Penrose, the impression was given that a convention within a convention had been held and that the Members of the Old Guard had finally agreed on their choice for the nomination. This impression was strengthened by the confident air of John P. King, field marshal of the Penrose forces, and by the fact that the Pennsylvania Senator having publicly endorsed Governor Sproul had given an impetus to the boom that made it reverberate above all others. Many political wiseacres during to the belief that the Old Guard would not disclose the name of their choice until a sufficient number of ballots had been taken to warrant giving their strength to any one choice.

The statement attributed to Hiram Johnson in the text above was made prior to announcement of what course the Republican party would pursue in dealing with the treaty and league of nations. Whether or not the treaty plank agreed upon will meet with his views is not known and will not be until the platform comes up for ratification tonight but in view of the position he has taken on it there is little prospect of it being satisfactory to the aggressive Californian.

IT COSTS FROM FOUR CENTS TO $5000 TO RUN FOR CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, June 8.—Getting nominated for Congress is cheap despite the primary system, according to expenses statements filed by candidates with Tyler Page, clerk of the House of Representatives. In about 20 states apparently it costs nothing for not a single statement has been filed. This condition is sworn to be true in numerous congressional districts of many of the other states.

The admitted costs range from four cents to $5,000. Henry Spaan, an Indiana Democrat, wrote a couple of letters, hence the four-cent item, while E. W. Rothrock, a Pennsylvania Republican, spent the $5,000. Other candidates scattered throughout the country, place the cost at fifty cents to a few hundred or thousand dollars.

Miss Mary and Reda O'Brien of Osceola attended the Nurses' dance here last evening.

RECEPTION TO CLASS OF 1920

The reception at the Nurse's Home last evening to the Class of 1920, as a part of the Commencement program of the Clearfield Hospital's Nurses' Training School, was an especially delightful function and was attended by a large number of the relatives and friends of this year's graduates. Dancing was indulged in and delicious refreshments were served.

THOMAS H. GOON'S FUNERAL

The funeral of the late Thomas H. Goon was held today. Rev. Dr. E. C. Reeve, of the Presbyterian Church, conducted brief services at the Goon home on Fifth street at 11 o'clock, at the conclusion of which the funeral party repaired to New Millport via of the New York Central. Funeral services were held at New Millport, Rev. Jarrett officiating, with interment in New Millport cemetery.

Once the balloting begins The Progress force will not see bed or board until the fray is over. Here is hoping it will not go to twenty ballots as some predict.

That Johnson will bolt if the Republican party does not declare emphatically against the League of Nations is the only conclusion one can reach after reading the statement credited to him in today's dispatches.

Wood delegates are reported to look with favor on Wm. C. Sproul. Johnson has found Sproul to be congenial company. There are many reasons for thinking that Sproul will be the nominee. There is no reason for thinking he will not be except that it "never happened that way before."

Dempsey is reported to be winning in his battle against the U. S. government on the charge of evading the draft. Dempsey hid behind a marriage which a weak Utah statute recognizes as legal although he is not living with his wife and probably never intended to. There is a greater court than that trying him, that of public opinion, and before it Dempsey will be convicted.

We believe that the Resolutions Committee is representative enough of the population of the United States to write the platform of the Republican party and do a good job of it. After all, it is the platform which will be the sole campaign argument this year and if any of the presidential aspirants wish to bolt the party they will probably find out just how infinitesimal they are.

"Honesty" is the stamp which every thinking American will put on the work of the Resolutions Committee in framing the G. O. P. platform. The committee was cajoled, harassed and hounded by every organization, ism and faction in the nation. All the great organizations seeking personal or class preference were on the job with threats of ruin for the party unless the members surrendered to their demands.

As to living costs the Republican party is making no promises. It realizes that the task of bringing order out of chaos is one that will require time, patience and effort. It offers no quick panacea merely to catch votes. While this is the biggest issue today it is indeed refreshing to see that the party takes such an honest stand.

OBREGON FRIENDLY TO AMERICANS, MAY BRING CLOSER RELATIONS

By RALPH H. TURNER

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MEXICO CITY, May 19. (By Mail.)

In one respect at least, it is confidently believed that the foreign policy of the new Mexican revolutionary government will differ radically from that of the late lamented Venustiano Carranza. This change of policy lies in the matter of Pan-American relations.

Carranza was obsessed with an idea, conscientious or otherwise, that he was destined to go down in history as the man who had defended the rights of all Latin-America against the predatory designs of the "Colossus del Norte"—namely, the United States.

At times his policy indicated that he even dreamed of an alliance among the Latin-American nations. Carranza sought to create the impression in Central and South America that Mexico constantly was being made the victim of unwarranted attacks from the United States. With this theory

as a background he endeavored to draw South America into an attitude of sympathy for Mexico, as well as antipathy toward any Mexican policy which emanated from Washington.

Mexico City newspapers which reflected the official viewpoint frequently spoke of the "Carranza Doctrine"—a doctrine which supposedly aimed to unify Latin-America in all matters political, social and commercial. To achieve this aim, Carranza employed a form of propaganda which, though it may have some effect, certainly bore few evidences of subtlety.

An occasional attack upon the Monroe Doctrine was one form of campaign. Sometimes it was accompanied by a suggestion that an exclusive Latin-American doctrine would be more satisfactory. This mode of propaganda did not always arise from Mexico City sources even though it had its inspiration here. Carranza, through his ministers abroad, was in touch with certain Central and South American citizens, who, at intervals, could be depended upon to direct an attack upon the United States.

However, Carranza's propaganda functioned chiefly through his Foreign Office. Its mode of operation was illustrated particularly well at the time the Jenkins case was in the public eye and the State Department in Washington had resumed its note-writing activity.

Scarcely a day passed but what Carranza's side of the story, illuminated by statements of how the United States again was abusing Mexico, was sent from the Mexican Foreign Office to the Mexican legations throughout Latin-America. These cabled reports were to be given out either in the form of interviews or direct statements to the Latin-American press. All press comment, either Mexican or American, which was favorable to Mexico in any degree, was assembled and cabled to South America. In turn, South American opinion which favored Mexico and attacked the United States, was collected at this end and given to the newspapers of the capital for home consumption.

This form of procedure was general, but always found stimulus when some prominent "issue" arose between Mexico and the United States.

General Alvaro Obregon, the leader of the revolution which ousted Carranza, has declared himself opposed to such a policy and he is being taken at his word. Obregon appreciates, first, that the new government should strive for recognition from Washington at the earliest possible date. He has announced that American capital would be welcomed in Mexico and protected. Moreover the revolutionaries may desire, at some future date, to negotiate with the United States for a loan. And Obregon, it is believed, is broad-gauged enough to realize that a policy of hostility toward the United States is not the best method to attain these things.

In the opinion of foreign diplomats here, if Obregon has seen the fallacy of Carranza's foreign policy, and is prepared to modify that policy, it will mean much for the betterment of Pan-American relations.

The Issue Of Lytle Bros. Campaign Is As Clear As Daylight

It is simply to decide whether we are to have prices of necessities lower or higher.

Ever since the announcement of May 8th, taking One-Fifth Off Our Prices the Lytle Bros. Store has led the battle for lower prices.

Some other merchants have resisted. They declare that prices can't come down.

The people have recognized this store that is fighting on their side, and have also recognized some stores that are marching under the people's banner, but that are secretly helping the other side.

There is no difficulty finding out where we stand, nor in discovering what is going on here.

Every business day since May 8th we have been carrying out a definite plan, doing just a plain, straightforward thing.

WE OFFER A 20 PER CENT DEDUCTION FROM THE PRICE OF EVERYTHING IN THE STORE

Find another store that is doing this and you will find a store that is fighting on the people's side.

Americanism

By LEONARD WOOD

One country, one constitution, one destiny.—Daniel Webster: Speech March 14, 1837.

"ONE COUNTRY" There is a whole sermon in these two words emphasized as they were by the eloquence of Webster and understood in all their import of meaning by those who heard them and by those who later read them.

Americanism has to do first with the foreign born who come to our shores and of those native born who need the lesson, "One Country." There can be no double allegiance. The native born who need an understanding of this truth are those who out the flag of some father which they call an ideal above the flag of their country. In this sense their allegiance is dual. They are dreamers rather than patriots and their dreams are generally baseless fancies.

In the work of Americanization of the foreign born who come to this country to seek equality of opportunity and liberty under the law, it is necessary first to make them know that their allegiance once given to this country they must forego their allegiance to any other land under the sun. It is a perfectly natural thing that a man should look back to the land of his birth with affection, but the very fact that he left it for another land proves that he believed in his heart the other land was the better one. It is therefore, to this immigrant that he should give his heart and his hand and when one gives these he pledges loyalty.

Americanization means the Americanizing of the people. It is complete only when the man or the woman is an American with no other country in the balance of his affections. An American lives in America and lives for America.

"One Constitution" In a sense the constitution of a country is the country itself. It forms the basis of the country's liberties. It is the law of patriotism. The breaker of the law is no true American. The Constitution has been amended. It is within the power of the people to amend it at any time that the proper majority of them may wish. It is the statute of liberty. A man cannot support the country without supporting the Constitution which is the bulwark of the freedom of the people.

"One Destiny" Destiny is the lot of a man. It is that to which he is appointed and in a strict sense it is that to which he is consecrated. The lot of man is his duty lot and in the sense of destiny it is his lot and the end of it. The destiny of America therefore is continued and unending liberty. The keeping of the continuity of freedom is in the hands of the people. If they are all Americans in the high sense they will keep their trust until the end.

Accumulation

 Improved 25%

The latest Miller triumph is a super-grade tread. It exceeds the best rival treads today by an average of 25 per cent. This has been proved, under careful watch, by many road comparisons.

The Miller Tire mileage is the talk of the day. But these new-grade treads outwear the balance of the tire.

Not one Miller Tire, built with this new tread, has ever come back with the tread gone.

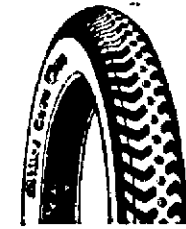

These treads do not vary. Every day the Miller tread stock is vulcanized and tested in the laboratory. It's proved up to these new standards before a tread is made.

Miller Cord Tires, in the factory tests, now average 15,000 miles. Miller Fabrics from 8,000 to 9,000 miles. And these factory tests are extreme.

Watch your mileage on one Miller Tire. Compare it with any other and it will win you. You owe that to yourself in view of Miller records.

A HOUSEKEEPER

By GRACE E. RILEY.

(© 1920, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Hester Blynn started the trouble. Hester had lived with Melissa for 14 years. Now she was married and Melissa was left alone.

"I believe I'm lonesome," Melissa gurgled to herself. Gurgled describes it. Her conversation always seemed on the ragged edge of a laugh.

Fifteen years before, the heart of Ned Coffin, Melissa's sweetheart since her childhood days, had been captured by a summer boarder—a pretty girl and gay, who, when urged by Ned, had given up her school in Boston and married him in late September.

Their wedding day gave birth to Melissa's gurgling laugh, a disguise for her aching heart; and to all intents and purposes Melissa had bought a farm in New York state, where, with her cousin Hester Blynn, she had lived and had gained a name for herself, both for her excellent cooking and for her fine friendliness to the world in general.

"Yes, I'm lonesome," she reiterated. "When a woman gets to pitying herself, she'd better look elsewhere for an outlet for her thoughts," and, lighting the lamp, she settled down to devour her farm paper. Everything from the president's illness to the want ads fell under her appraising eye. Then an ejaculation escaped from her lips. Someone in Nantucket wanted a housekeeper. She'd love to answer it! She was a good cook, and was alone in the world. What was to prevent? She read again:

"A widower on Nantucket Island has a place for a housekeeper with prospects. Address N-24, Farmers' Home."

"Seems like writing to a white post or some equally inhuman thing. Maybe he's that sort. Well, we'll see. Guess I'll send him a jar of my plums as a wedge to his approval," said Melissa, suiting action to word by making a raid on her choicest preserves. With great care she packed the jar, and, as with the letter, signed "Melissa Crosby," her mother's name, and addressed it, too, to N-24.

"Melissa, you're an old fool, but, as the saying goes, 'no fool like an old fool.'" So saying, she bolted the door, put out the lamp, banked the kitchen fire and mounted the stairs to her cozy bedroom.

The next day, Ben, man of all work, carried her letter and package to town, and for a week Melissa was as near to nerves as a healthy woman can be. Then came a letter from N-24, expressing his desire that Melissa Crosby come on Oct. 1, to Boston, where he would meet her. He signed himself "Faithfully yours, N-24."

To say Melissa was in a state of excitement would little describe her perturbation. "Now, Melissa, what have you let yourself in for? Probably he's 70 years old and feeble. No, he can't be feeble, else he couldn't come to Boston," she argued as her laugh filled the room.

She wrote again to N-24, telling him to come to the Y. W. C. A., Boston, on Oct. 1, and await for her. Then followed the busiest two weeks of Melissa's life. In the midst of packing preparatory to closing the house, Hester and her husband unexpectedly returned.

"Oh, Melissa, we're in awful trouble," said Hester.

"This is the place to come, then, Hester. What's wrong?"

"You know we were planning to buy the Hiram Brown place, had the papers already to sign, when Hiram got one of his tantrums on, and refused to sell. Now we ain't got any place to go."

"The Lord will provide," read Melissa from an old sampler hanging over the kitchen door. "You surely came to the right place, Hester; you can rent my farm."

"But I don't understand, Melissa." "Course you don't, so I'll tell you. I'm going to Nantucket for a spell, and will be only too glad to rent the farm if you and John will take it."

After a discussion of terms and conditions, the matter was satisfactorily settled, and in a week Melissa was on her way to Boston. October 1 found N-24 at the desk of the Y. W. C. A., inquiring for Miss Crosby. "She's sitting in that telephone room over there," the attendant told him. He crossed the hall, then stopped suddenly, but not before Melissa's glance had fallen on him.

"Ned Coffin, what are you doing here?"

Ned took in the situation at once. "So you, Melissa, are Miss Crosby? I am N-24, Melissa. So you're going to be my housekeeper?"

A hot flush stained her cheeks. "Now, Melissa," she scolded herself. "Don't be silly."

"Guess I am, Ned."

He chuckled. The chuckle increased until it became a hearty laugh.

"What are you laughing at, Ned—why do you look so wise?"

"I was thinking 'bout my ad, Melissa."

"What about it?" The writing of the ad had quite gone from her memory.

"A housekeeper with prospects," he quoted.

She raised her eyes to meet his, her cheeks growing pinker and pinker as he said in lowered tone: "Melissa, how about the prospect materializing before we leave Boston?"

Melissa's gurgling laugh was cut short as Ned Coffin, reading acquiescence in her eyes, followed the lead of man since time immemorial.

Don't be downhearted. Perhaps, next spring, we can tap some sugar trees, boil down the water and get some sugar in that way.

Comb Sage Tea Into Gray Hair

Ladies! Try this! Darkens beautifully and nobody can tell—Brings back its gloss and youthfulness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, a large bottle, at little cost at drug stores, known as “Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound,” thus avoiding a lot of fuss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

Miss Madeline Shade was delightfully surprised last evening by several of her friends dropping in on her, it being her birthday. The evening was spent in dancing. Delicious refreshments were served.

Eucalyptus Trees.

The grand eucalyptus trees in Gippsland are probably the grandest of their kind in the world, and quite as magnificent as the Californian giants, only not so large in circumference. The shedding of their bark is a misstatement. What the tree does do is this: It sheds the old, dry, broken, and coarse bark, but the new one is sound and solid, and is not shed. The new bark is clean and very smooth, no branches growing for 150 feet or more.

Daily Thought.

It is for this purpose that we are friends—that we may be of good service one to another. . . . Hast thou seen thy brothers at enmity? Reconcile them. . . . Hast thou seen them wrangled? Stand up in their defense. It is not on them but on thyself that thou art conferring the chief benefit.
—St. Augustine.

Joys of Life.

One of the joys of life is planning a model home, but the discovery of the cost of building material and the disposition of the contractor to examine your plans and then follow his own takes some of the joy away.

Aspiration.

An aspiration is a joy forever, a possession as solid as a landed estate, a fortune which we can never exhaust and which gives us year by year a revenue of pleasurable activity.
—Robert Louis Stevenson.

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—“For the last four years I have doctor'd off and on without help. I have had pains every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Sometimes I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach. Three years ago I lost a child and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and throw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish this if you like that it may help some other woman.”—Mrs. M. A. Y. STENDER, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich.

Sugar Cane.
The leaves of the sugar cane are long and narrow, and the stalks are hard and thick. It looks very much like growing corn, but grows somewhat taller—at times as high as 15 to 18 feet. After the cane ripens, it is cut and taken to a sugar mill.

Horse That Keeps His Head.
When a horse suddenly finds a sled with four children on it in collision with him, rears up, comes down with one foot well out in front of the children and holds up the other till they scramble to safety, he literally gallops into everybody's heart. That's what a horse did recently in a Massachusetts town.—Our Dumb Animals.
